RAILROAD INDICATIONS

N. Y. C. Road Makes Best Freight Run Since November

BUSINESS SIGNBOARD

One Week's Gains Show an Increase of $700 Over the Corresponding Week a Year Ago

CONDITIONS ARE NOW VERY HELPFUL

The following from the Williamsport Gezette and Bulletin is a good example of the business conditions at present and the stir in many of the manufacturing circles should be sufficient to satisfy the most pessimistic that better times are to be looked for.

The return to normal railroad business conditions, or perhaps even an advance in business, seems assured locally. The local advances in railroad operations have been especially noticeable on the Philadelphia and Reading and the New York Central roads, particularly as regards passenger travels. Now the New York Central has just made a record that leaves no room for doubt as to the present condition of business.

It is stated that passenger travel is now so heavy, locally, that a recent week's business of the New York Central ran $700 ahead of the same period a year ago. There were no particularly big events during the week to swell the travel.

It is stated on good authority that passenger travel is likely to be duplicated very shortly in freight lines. The freight business of both the Reading and Central is now growing heavier. The number of freight trains handled daily at Newberry Junction is large, including a great lot of coal traffic. In fact railroaders in a position to now say that the freight business of these two roads is now running better than at any period since last November.

Mrs. Alice Holderman.

Tuesday evening about seven o'clock Mrs. Alice Holderman wife of F. A. Holderman died at Unionville. Mrs. Holderman had been ill only a few hours when death came, confinement being the cause of her untimely demise.

THE STATE'S FOOD SUPPLY

Commissioner Foust Makes an Interesting Report of Tests

NOT ONE VIOLATION

Three Hundred and Fifty Samples of Food Tested and Reported Upon as Free from Preservatives.

NOT ONE ARTICLE WAS MISBRANDED

Dairy and Food Commissioner James Foust has just issued an interesting report concerning the food tests that have been made in the state. It follows in part:

"We have just had a fine exhibition of the beneficent workings of the pure food regulations of Pennsylvania," exclaimed the commissioner," and we are greatly encouraged to believe that manufacturers and jobbers and retailers throughout the country are rapidly coming to share our conviction that it is better to do right than to come in contact with the law. But, I have no intention of delivering a lecture," said Mr. Foust, "and I will just quit moralizing and give you some suggestive facts.

"Sometime ago we determined to thoroughly investigate the quality of various brands of canned goods, soups potted meats, etc., sold in the state. We concluded to make a comprehensive job of it. Special agents of the division were sent into the following counties. Mercer, Crawford, Erie, Warren, Venango, Armstrong, Westmoreland, Indiana, Blair, Huntingdon, Clearfield, Centre, Lycoming, Northumberland, Dauphin, Lancaster and Lebanon.

"The special agents of the division gathered in all sorts of canned goods. They collected corn, peas, beans, tomatoes, asparagus oysters; perhaps some other sorts. They accumulated a large variety of the standard soups. They purchased a collection of potted meats consisting of chicken, ham, tongue and veal loaf. Nor did they neglect weiner wurst and pork sausage. These commodities were put up in various states in the union. They bore all sorts of trade marks and were variously branded. It was meant to get a fairly representative lot of these products in order that the investigation might reveal some broad truths. We tried to let no manufacturer whose goods are sold in Pennsylvania escape. We wanted to know what they were doing by way of keeping the law. And we wanted to know because we thought the consuming public ought to know. We conduct our office upon the theory that it is the right of the purchaser to know the quality and the texture of the goods he is buying. The day of the "pig in the poke" is gone, we hope.

Some of the samples were sent to Prof. James A. Evans, at Erie; some were consigned to Dr. William Frear, at State College; some were sent to Prof. C. B. Cockran, at West Chester; and what were left found their way to the workshop of Prof. H. C. Stiefel, at Pittsburg.

Not a single one of all the 350 samples contained a chemical preservative and none were artificially colored.

It is true that a few of the different brands of potted goods, more especially ham, contained a cerial intended to cheapen it, but all were properly labeled, correctly indicating the nature of the contents of the package. Thus the label on a package containing ham and cerial read, "Ham Flavored." which was correct, and as the package contained nothing injurious to health it was correctly branded, in accordance with law.

Bullock—Gates

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gates at Gatesburg, was the scene of a very pretty wedding Wednesday noon when their daughter, Miss Lillian Belle Gates and Robert G. Bullock of Franklinville were joined in wedlock. The Gates home was very prettily decorated for the occasion and the marriage ceremony was witnessed by a large number of friends of the contracting parties. Rev. W. C. Armstrong of the Methodist church said the words that made them man and wife. The bride was attended by Miss Hattie Wyre as bridesmaid and William Gates acted as best man. Following the ceremony a very elaborate wedding dinner was served.

THE CENTRE—CLINTON LEAGUE.

Howard and Snow Shoe Played Sensational Game at Howard.

One of the "rottenest" and yet sensational games of ball in the Centre—Clinton league during the season was played at Howard Saturday afternoon when the Coal Barons defeated the Millionsires by the score of 17 to 7. The players appeared to be in good condition and the first inning was the promise of a good game, but oh, that second inning when the Coal Barons were at the bat. McMurtrie was nowhere in the box and to make matters worse had no support. Off McMurtrie's pitching and poor fielding the Coal Barons had eight runs scored in the one inning. The game was considered as good as lost and Manager Diehl was at a loss to know what to do. P. Holter, who had been away for two weeks and who had not done any pitching for three years when he was on the second team, was placed in the box, and the Coal Barons were up against it.

In the fifth inning the tables turn and the Millionaires began to find the Tri state, and Inter-state famed pitcher Renand and he was batted out of the box. He was replaced by Fay who was not any better and the Millionaires scored five runs. In the sixth inning the Coal Barons put their third man in the box.

There was some sensational playing at times and at other times there were some errors that were disgusing to the fans. The Snow Shoe team had three out-of-town players in the game and two from their home town who just returned from Villa Nova college.

INDUSTRIES PICKING UP

Prosperity Movement is Backed by Big Manufacturers.

RE-EMPLOYMENT DAY

July 1 Has Been so Termed on Account of the Numerous Industries Started and Others Resume Full Time

WESTERN RAILROADS ARE ACTIVE.

July 1 has been termed Re-employment Day, because thousands will resume work after an idless of many weeks, says a Chicago dispatch to the North American.

The prosperity movement is being backed by hundreds of big manufacturers, who realize that renewed prosperity is sweeping over the country after the financial depression of the winter.

Among the largest corporations to make July 1 re-employment day is the Illinois Central Railroad. After an idleness of eight months, 5,500 men will be put back to work in the Illinois Central shops at Burnside, Ill.; Waterloo, Iowa; Clinton, Ill.; Memphis, Tenn., and Water Valley and Vicksburg, Miss.

Since November these shops have been running on half or two thirds time. When the 5500 men are re-employed the shop force will number about 10,000 persons. Four thousand of that number are Chicagoans worked in Burnside. At Memphis and Water Valley 4000 men are employed, at Waterloo and at Vicksburg, 800: The International Harvester Company has re-employed all of its help and many of the departments are working night and day shifts.

That the return of normal conditions so far as the construction of railway equipment is concerned, is at hand, is evidenced by the following announcement from Chicago regarding new orders given at the West Milwaukee car shops of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway.

A. E. Manchester, superintendent of motive power of the Milwaukee & St. Paul at Milwaukee, has received orders from headquarters to begin at once the construction of 70 locomotives of the highest type. This order means an outlay of $1,400 000 and will result in restoring employment at the West Milwaukee shops of that company the full force of 5,000 men.

Ten locomotives per month are turned out of the West Milwaukee shops. These new orders mean a total expenditure of $4,000,000 and will make it necessary to employ the full force of 5,000 men usually employed at the shops.

Mrs. Margaret Allison of Centre Hall, died in the Bellefonte hospital Tuesday morning of cancer of the stomach. She had been ill for some time but was brough to the Bellefonte hospital several weeks ago. She was a daughter of former Sheriff John Thompson of Centre county. Shortly after the death of her mother Mrs. Henry Witmer of Centre Hall, about fifteen years ago, she was married to Wm. Allison of Nittany valley. After her marriage to Mr. Allison they located in Howard where her husband died suddenly. Mrs. Allison lived in Howard several years after the death of her husband, but later returned to Centre Hall. Shortly before her death the deceased made a will in which she left her property to the Presbyterian church of Centre Hall and the Foreign Missionary society.

The funeral was held Thursday at 10 o'clock and interment was made it the cemetery at Centre Hall.

Died

Mrs. Mary C. wife of Daniel Weaver died at her home near Wolfe's Store suddenly on Monday. About 10 o'clock she was stricken with apoplexy and at the noon hour she passed away.

Mary C. Kreider was a daughter of Philip and Leah Kreider and was born in Penn township May 31st, 1842, making her age 66 years and 28 days. In 1867 she was married to Daniel Weaver who had just returned from serving his country and was beginning as a farmer, but later traded the farm for the grist mill which he has been running successfully since that time. She and her husband were members of the Reformed church and she has always been known as a kind, christian woman with many friends in church and social circles. She is the last of a family of eight children.

Besides the husband the following children survive: Clayton D., of Wolfe's Store; Ammon P., of Bethlehem; Calvin J., of Wolfe's Store; Orlando W., of Rebersburg; Melinda, at home and Mrs. Wm. Meyers, of Wolfe's Store.

The funeral was held in the Reformed church at Rebersburg Thursday morning at 10 o'clock and services were conducted by Rev. Wetzel. Interment in the Union cemetery at Rebersburg.

Jonathan D. Royer.

Jonathan D. Royer a well known and respected citizen of Potter township, died at his home at Centre Hill Wednesday morning about 7 o'clock, his death being caused bo dropsy and heart failure. His illness dates back for a period of some months. Mr. Royer was a native of Potter township but the other members of the family have drifted to other parts. He was aged about 71 years.

The deceased was twice married and is survived by his second wife and the following sons and daughters by the first marriage: Elmer E., Centre Hall; Mrs. John Snavely, Spring Mills; Mrs. Frank Gfrerer and Luther Royer, Centre Hall.

The funeral were held Saturday morning and services were conducted by Rev. Beaver, pastor of the Lutheran church, Centre Hall. Interment at Tusseyville.

A Sad Accident.

Omer Staggerts, a resident of Coalport, is nearly crazed over having accidentally shot and killed his little six year old boy. The father was out in the yard shooting sparrows, and just as he fired his gun the little boy came around the corner of the house and received the contents of the weapon with fatal results. It was a sad affair, but every investigation fully exonerates the father.

A Close Range View of TAFT And the Taft Family

His "Pussonal Magnitude," His Unfailing Good Nature, His Democratic Qualities, His Industry and Devotion to Duty and His Remarkable Record as Statesman-Traveler—Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott's Tribute—A Laugh For Earth's Sad Places

By ROBERTUS LOVE.

[Copyright, 1908, by Robertus Love.]

CHARLIE TAFT.

PERSONAL popularity counts for much in this world. Particularly does it bear weight in politics. No unpopular man ever was elected to office. Still, there are degrees of popularity, and there are men who possess the quality of likableness far above the average of their fellows. William H. Taft is one of these. "Personal magnetism"—he has it in great abundance. An old darky in the south was discussing Mr. Taft's chances for the presidency. He was for Taft because Taft is popular.

"What makes Mr. Taft so popular, uncle?" asked a bystander.

"His pussonal magnitude," promptly replied Uncle Rastus.

It cannot be denied that there is much of personal magnitude about Mr. Taft, who weighs in the neighborhood of 300 pounds when he is in fighting trim. He is a big man, and he was a big boy. Somehow men of extra avoirdupois usually enjoy a greater degree of popularity than do their brethren of the shrunk shank and the lean and hungry look. Most large men are good natured and jolly. When bigness runs to frame, to head and to heart the combination is irresistible. That is the Taft sort of bigness, for the secretary of war combines with his big frame a large and active intellect and a heart of human kindliness that beats for all.

The Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott says: "It is this intensely human quality in Mr. Taft that gives him his popular sobriquet of Bill Taft. He likes men, and he likes all sorts of men except those that are dishonest or disloyal. He was the most popular governor the Filipinos have ever had. This was not wholly because he was absolutely just, was loyal to their interests, urged the earliest possible substitution of civil law for military law and offered an invincible opposition to all schemes of exploiting the islands for the benefit of unscrupulous American pioneers. He was the personal friend of the Filipinos; he believed in them, defended them, befriended them, trusted them and—danced with them. This last fact, I am inclined to think, went as far as any, perhaps as all the others combined, to make the Filipinos idolize him, as they certainly do, for Judge Taft is in the best sense of the term a democrat. He is as free from race and class prejudices of every description as any man I have ever known. He is as thoroughly a believer in the motto, 'A man's a man for a' that.'"

Those who know Mr. Taft either intimately or casually testify to his unfailing good nature, his spirit of comradeship. He is a man who likes a joke and upon occasion can crack one himself. The Taft smile is famous because of its reproduction in newspaper and magazine pictures. The Taft laugh cannot be reproduced thus, but a recent caller at the war department said after having heard the big cabinet officer laugh, "A great, deep voiced laugh—the Taft laugh, in fine—which ought to be put on a phonograph record and sent to all those sad places on this earth where folks never smile."

But Mr. Taft can be stern when sternness is required. He knows how to enforce discipline in the army or out of it. When Taft was placed in charge of the Panama canal work as secretary of war he received a delegation of steam shovel engineers who were threatening to strike for more pay. The spokesman said:

"We'll strike right now if you don't agree to give us this raise."

"Do I understand you rightly, gentlemen?' inquired the secretary. "Do you mean to say that you want that raise before I have decided and that if you don't get it you'll strike?'

"Yes; that's right," replied the other, with a swagger.

"Then, gentlemen," said the secretary, "will you kindly step over to that table and write out your resignations?"

The men didn't want to resign. They reconsidered. The upshot was that they went back to work. Taft investigated their claims and after due consideration determined not to grant them the increase until such time as all other classes of labor employed on the canal could have a proportionate raise in pay.

Though Mr. Taft's home has been in Cincinnati all his life and he still votes in the city where he was born, it is probably a fact that no man ever considered for the presidency of the United States has been such a globe trotter. Mr. Taft has been nearly everywhere. He is essentially a world citizen, having hobnobbed with kings and commons, with princes and peasants, in various countries. It is estimated by a careful statistician that in his official capacity since his appointment as chairman of the Philippine commission Mr. Taft has traveled approximately 150,000 miles, or half a dozen times around the earth. It seems as easy for him to undertake a journey halfway around the world as it is for the average person to make a hundred mile trip. And Mr. Taft always works hard right up to the last minute. When he was about to start on the journey to the Philippines which became famous as the "matchmaking trip" because the president's daughter and other young ladies found their life romances en route the secretary of war was exceedingly busy. He had much work to do in his office in the war department. A messenger notified him that it was but twenty minutes to train time.

"All right," cheerily responded Taft continuing at work.

Five minutes later the messenger announced the flight of time.

"All right," said Taft.

When there were but ten minutes to spare a second messenger rushed in and tried to hurry up the chief personage connected with the journey.

"Train leaves in ten minutes, Mr. Secretary."

"Very well," said Mr. Secretary, still working at his desk.

About eleven minutes later the first messenger walked in and remarked:

GOLFER TAFT ON THE PUTTING GREEN.

"Your train has just pulled out of the station, Mr. Secretary."

"Fine!" cried Taft, with the Taft laugh. He knew very well, of course, that his train would wait for him, and he was not worried. Twenty minutes later he bundled up the department papers on which he could work en route, stepped into his carriage and went to the railroad station.

"A train can wait," he remarked to his private secretary, "but the United States war department business can't."

Though Mr. Taft is a very busy man he finds time to keep well acquainted with his family. He is a fine family man, with a fine family. Mrs. Taft, the first lady in the land in the event of her husband's election to the presidency, is a daughter of John W. Herron, who was President Hayes' law partner. The Hayes and Herron families were on terms of close intimacy. During the Hayes presidency young Miss Helen Herron, now Mrs. Taft, spent the Christmas holidays in the White House, the president being "uncle" to her and Mrs. Hayes "Aunt Lucy." This visit remains Mrs. Taft's pleasantest recollection of girlhood times. "Nothing in my life," she has said, "reaches the climax of human bliss which I felt as a girl of sixteen when I was entertained at the White House."

Mrs. Taft is handsome, intelligent, talented, witty and vivacious. She has been a student of music all her life and for seven years was president of the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra. She believes in the higher education for both men and women, and it is her proudest boast that all her children are studious. Her daughter, Miss Helen Herron Taft, now sixteen, has elected to take a full college course and is at Bryn Mawr. The eldest son, Robert Alphonso Taft, is nineteen and is a junior at Yale. He took two entrance prizes when he entered the university. He has chosen the law as his profession. The other child is Charlie, a boy of ten, who now dreams of West Point.

"I am old fashioned enough," says Mrs. Taft, "to believe that woman is the complement of man and that what is most feminine about her is most attractive to man and therefore of the greatest utility to the world. It does not seem to me that a college course makes a girl unfit for domestic obligations or masculine in her tastes. All women are not called on to preside over a home or to rear children, but I think that all broad minded women concede that this is the loftiest type of usefulness."

MRS. WILLIAM H. TAFT.

Mrs. Taft says she never has had time for fads or to cultivate eccentricities—she has been too busy. She delights in traveling and in studying foreign tongues. During her residence in Manila she studied Spanish very diligently, and also some of the Tagal dialects. As Mrs. Taft has accompanied her husband on most of his long journeys, she, like him, is an exceptionally experienced traveler. She is still a young woman, having been married but twenty-one years, and is the most youthful looking lady in the cabinet circle. Until the accession of Mrs. James R. Garfield she was, in fact, the youngest.

The home life of the Tafts is described as ideal. Miss Helen, like her mother, is bookish and intellectual. Robert, like his father, is ambitious to excel in the law. It is remembered that up to a few years ago Judge Taft's great ambition was to become a member of the supreme court. He has turned aside from two opportunities to reach that exalted position owing to his devotion to the duty immediately before him. He declined to quit the Philippines until he had completed the work for which he was sent to the islands.

In religious matters the Tafts are divided, but not at all inharmoniously. The secretary is a member of the Unitarian church. Mrs. Taft is an ardent Episcopalian. Miss Helen has been confirmed in her mother's church, while young Robert Taft is a parishioner of All Souls' Unitarian church in Washington along with his father. Little Charlie's religion at present has to do chiefly with forts, arsenals and guns, but that may be due to the fact that his father is secretary of war. Mrs. Taft and her daughter attend St. John's Protestant Episcopal church in Washington.

Secretary Taft is a hard and systematic worker. He is accredited with doing an enormous quantity of work every day in the war department. When he is absent from Washington he usually carries great packets of public documents along upon which to work en route. When in Washington he frequently takes public papers home so that he can work in the privacy of his study.

Mr. Taft has been considered always by his friends as a remarkably lucky man. He has not known the bitterness of defeat in any of his endeavors toward distinction. As a matter of fact, with the single exception of his election to the Ohio judgeship, all his preferments have come to him by appointment. It is a remarkable fact that when he was but thirty-two years of age his name was considered seriously for appointment to the supreme bench of the United States, and it was only his youth that caused the president to reconsider and finally name an older man.

GRANGE BANK CONVENTION

Plan to Increase Number of Banks During the Coming Year

REMARKABLE SUCCESS

Of the Institutions Established Two Years Ago is Shown by Delegates to Convention Held at Troy

FIFTEEN BANKS NOW IN OPERATION

Troy, Pa., June 25.—The National Grange Bank convention, held today at this place, was attended by 150 delegates, including prominent men from all parts of Pennsylvania and many from New York state points. United States Treasurer Charles H. Treat was to have been present but was unavoidable detained. His address was read by Lecturer Dorsett of Mansfield, Pa., and was listened to with great interest. It was comprehensive study of banking affairs, with especial reference to grange banks.

An important proposition was broached during the day—the formation of a central grange organization to promote grange banks wherever there appears to be a field for them. The plan carries with it a provision to offer to the residents in each place the first opportunity to buy stock. A representative of the central organization would be sent in each instance to take charge of the organization of the grange bank to be formed under the direction of the central organization. While no definite action was taken, the scheme was very favorably received, as it is expected to open up a great banking field.

Plans were discussed for extending the bank organization work. From indications reported from all over the State the number of banks will during the next year increase in number from 15 to 24. Preparations have been made for the institution of at least five, with a likelihood of nine new institutions.

The fifteen banks in this State reported a total deposit of more than $2,000,000. The Troy Bank showed the most remarkable increase during the last year in the State, leaping in her total amount of deposits from something over $60,000 to $164,000 from February 1, 1907, to the same time in 1908.

The grange banks were reported without an exception to be doing a safe and profitable business.

Among the prominent Pennsylvania grange bankers present were John G. McHenry, of Benton, superintendent of the state grange bankers, and W. F. Hill, of Huntingdon, master of the State Grange.

Young Man Seriously Injured

Chester Daughenbaugh, a young man who lives about a mile south west of Howard along the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad between that place and his home on Wednesday was struck on the head by a piece of iron or something protruding from a car of a passing freight. It was about 11 o'clock at night and the young man was walking in the direction the train was running and the iron hit him on the back of the head inflicting a deep gash and terribly injuring him. He was taken to the Lock Haven hospital where his wound was treated and from latest reports he is getting along all right.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

A Cure For Despondency.

A large, fleshy man with whiskers told me of a sovereign cure for despondency the other day. He had a number of girls in his employ, among them one that he knew was in struggling circumstances and supporting a sick mother on a none too healthy salary. She had come into the store and laid her purse and somber widow hat on the counter while she did something about the place. The large fleshy man got between her and the purse, and when she was not looking he slipped a five dollar bill into it and moved unconsciously about his business. In the afternoon he noticed that she had a red spot in each cheek, and she was heard asking other girls if they believed in fairies. She never solved the mystery—it was two years ago—and never will unless she reads this. But the five dollar bill was very useful in its little way, and the large despondent man felt so good for two whole days that he hip-hopped on the sidewalk on his way home.—Minneapolis Journal.

Living on Next to Nothing.

Most people do not need the evidence of recently published statistics to prove to them that it costs more to live in London than it once did. But it is doubtful if any Londoner now living was ever able to do it on £30 a year as Boswell's poor Irish painter did. "He allowed £10 for clothes and linen. He said a man might live in a garret at 18 pence a week. Few people would inquire where he lived, and if they did it was easy to say, 'Sir, I am to be found at such a place.' By spending threepence at a coffee house he might be for some hours a day in very good company. He might dine for sixpence, breakfast on bread and milk for a penny and do without supper." Of course expenses can always be reduced to a minimum by doing without things. The question is, Which of our various expenses is unessential? Boswell's Irishman hinted at one. "On clean shirt days he went abroad and paid visits," says his ingenious chronicler.—London Chronicle.

The Pirates.

The Chicago News fails to name the hero of this story, but has it that the visitor to the home of a well known Hoosier State author found his three youngsters romping in the hallway.

"What are you playing, boys?" he inquired.

"We are playing pirates," elucidated the smallest.

"Pirates? Why, how can you play pirates in Indiana? There are no seas bordering on this state."

"Oh, we don't need any seas. We are literary pirates, like pa."

And five minutes later a chorus of yells from behind the barn told that the hand that wields the pen can also wield the shingle.

Outside of His Practice.

"All that is the matter with you, sir," said the eminent physician after a thorough examination, "is lack of nutrition. You don't eat enough."

"I eat all I can hold, doctor," said the attenuated caller.

"Then you need to have your capacity enlarged, and that's a case for a surgeon. Five dollars, please. Good morning."—Chicago Tribune.

Experimenting With Alfalfa.

To Farmer S. C. Frankenberger, of Loganton, and his tenant farmer belongs the distinction of having successfully introduced alfalfa in Sugar valley. Their first experiment consisted in sowing one acre which yielded a good, big load and was harvested last Friday. Both Mr. Frankenberger and his farmer, Gord Frankenberger, are well pleased with the trial and while it is just a beginning they talk enthusiastically about it.

Alfalfa is grown extensively in the west where it grows to the height of a man's shoulders and it is said that a ton of it is equivalent to a ton of bran for feeding milk cows, and where it is fed generally much less grain is needed. It grows deep roots, is very prolific and in some places two crops are raised in one season. It thrives best in sandy sub soil.

ENTIRE NATION MOURNS DEATH

Ex-President Cleveland Passed Away at Home in Princeton.

WIFE IS PROSTRATED

News of the Death of the Former President Came as a Shock to the Entire Nation.

HISDEATH WAS VERY UNEXPEC TED

Princeton, N. J., June 24.—Ex-President Gover Cleveland died suddenly at his bome in this city at 8.40 o'clock this morning. Death was unexpected, although he had been ill for a number of weeks and his condition was greatly weakened by his sickness,

Only yesterday Dr. Bryant, of New York, paid a visit to the Cleveland home, but the information was subsequently given out that his visit was not occasioned by any alarming conditions of the former president. Indeed, Mrs. Cleveland was particularly cheerful last night over her husband's condition.

The ex-president was apparently in good spirits and better health than for some time. He took outdoor exercise yesterday afternoon and retired at the usual hour. When the discovery of his death was made this morning the residents of Princeton were greatly shocked and the grief of Mrs. Cleveland is almost uncontrolable.

Heart failure, complicated with prombosis and odema, was the direct cause of his death. The children were notified and hurried to Princeton from Tamworth, New Hampshire, where they have been staying with Mrs. Cleveland's mother. So sanguine was the family over the condition of Mr. Cleveland that it was not even thought advisable to keep the children at home.

Immediately after her husband's death Mrs. Cleveland collapsed. It marked the end of her life struggle which had been waged for years in the interests of her husband's health. After having collapsed, Mrs. Cleveland later rallied.

He was born in Caldwell, Essex county New Jersey, March 18. 1837, and was the son of Richard Failey Cleveland, a Presbyterian minister. His mother was Anne Neal, daughter of a Baltimore merchant. His advantages in early life were few, for the times of his youth were difficult, and even a minister's son could not clearly see the opportunities.

As a boy, he worked as clerk in a store, aiding in the support of his family. His two brothers were soldiers in the Civil war. He could not enlist, but he sent a substitute and worked many years afterward to pay him. At seventeen he was an assist-teacher in a school for the blind in New York city, and then went to Buffalo. Here he secured a position as copyist with a law firm and began to read Blackstone, being paid in the meantime $4 a week.

After being admitted to the bar, in 1859, his rise with the law firm was rapid, until he became manager at a salary of $1,000 a year. He supported his widowed mother. He became district attorney afterward formed a law firm, known as Lanning, Cleveland & Folsom, and then was drawn into political life. His record as sheriff of Erie county was so good that it secured his election as mayor of Buffalo. He saved the citizens of the city $1,000,000 during the first six months of his term by vetoing extravagant appropriations.

This attracted outside attention, and he was elected governor of New York state the following year. In 1884 he was nominated by the Democratic national convention at Chicago, and defeated James G. Blaine. He was again a candidate in 1888, but was defeated by Benjamin Harrison. The distinction of being elected president after being defeated was his on the following election, when President Harrison was defeated.

Mr. Cleveland's services as trustee o the Equitable Life are of such recent occurrence and knowledge that they need no detailing. It remains only to touch on his domestic life.

At the age of 48 Mr. Cleveland married Frances Folson, daughter of his deceased law partner, Oscar Folsom. Mrs. Cleveland was one of the youngest and most gracious mistresses of the white house. Their domestic life was one of model happiness. With Mrs. Cleveland, four children survive: Esther, Francis Grover, Marion and Richard Folsom. The first child, Ruth, born in the white house died.

"The funeral of former president Cleveland will be held on Friday, June 26, at Westland, Mr. Cleveland's residence on Bayard lane, Princeton, and will be strictly private."

Give the small boy a pig or calf, let him care for it and don't fail to let him have the proceeds when the animal is sold.

We have often wondered who could be so long suffering and patient as to earn and prepare grub and mend the seat of the pants of the average depot loafer.

During the six year period from 1901-7 the average yearly per capita consumption of wheat food in the United States was five and one-half bushels.

Of the 59,059 acres of flax raised in Ireland last year 59,414 acres was grown in the province of Ulster, while 699 out of the 705 scutching mills in the country were in the same province.

The gardener would have good grounds for considering himself singularly fortunate if there was a plant or vegetable in the category of the things he wanted to raise for the market which had the persistence and vitality of the common dandelion.

A friend makes a practice of chopping up all the suckers and red horse he can get and giving them to his hens, which, being confined, eat the fish greedily as a substitute for the animal food which they would pick up in considerable quantities were they running at large. Another friend disposes of rabbits during the summer months in the same way.

One decided advance that is noticeable this season is that of the use of the seed drill for the small grains. In fields in which this tool has been used an evener stand and growth of grain are to be seen than in those in which the old broadcast seeding method has been followed. This is merely one of the evidences of the greater care which is being exercised in the working of lands whose value is advancing up to and above the eighty dollar per acre level.

A move that can be made in many sections toward an improvement of public highways should consist of cutting down a portion of the trees bordering the road, especially where they are situated on the south or west sides of the same. They should at least be so thinned out as to let the sun shine on to the road for a part of the day. Where this condition cannot be brought about the question of road improvement is made increasingly difficult, if not well nigh impossible.

Geraniums, like boys, are often the better off for an outdoor summer vacation. Prune them back (the geraniums) considerably, remove from the pots and put them in a garden spot where they will get a good deal of sunshine. Before setting in the ground put a good shovelful of rotten manure beneath each plant, and during the drier weather see that they get plenty of water. If this course is followed it will mean lots of bloom in late summer and good strong plants to pot in the fall.

A friend of the writer is usually rather slow in plowing his garden, waiting until settled warm weather comes. It is noticeable that his garden is very clean, due quite likely in part to the fact that a whole lot of weed seeds germinate and are turned under with the first plowing. More than this, the seed that he puts into the warm, mellow soil usually comes on very quickly and his stuff by midsummer is often as advanced as that of his neighbor's which was planted two or three weeks earlier.

Some one who is interested not only in agriculture, but temperance, has figured out that if all of the corn, some 25,000,000 bushels, which is at present consumed in the manufacture of spirituous liquors were to be lost—that is, the market for it destroyed—the loss on each farm which is now devoted to corn culture would be but a paltry 13 cents an acre. But this seems like granting more than is necessary, for if the corn in question were not used in the manufacture of whisky it would likely be devoted to some purpose which would bring the grower as generous a return.

Blue jays and blackbirds are both noisy, unattractive representatives of the bird family and have little to their credit from any point of view which entitles them to admiration or protection. In addition to being virtually worthless as insect destroyers, they frequently break up and destroy the nests, eggs and young of other species of birds which have a real economic value—for example, the robin, grosbeak, oriole and many other smaller birds. If either of the two birds first named make plans to nest on your premises, you will be justified in putting a stop to the operations.

The 1906-7 olive oil production of Italy is rated at 29,411,423 gallons. Were the figures not given on what seems to be good authority one would be tempted to suspect that a good share of this olive oil was made from American cotton seed or linseed.

Broken crockery may be made to serve a good purpose if instead of being thrown on the ash heap or out behind the wood shed it is broken up into small pieces and put into the hen yard. The poultry will appropriate all that is small enough as grit for grinding their food.

It is well to keep an eye on the red, gray or fox squirrels, however tame, which may frequent the trees or groves about your place, as they are among the worst enemies that the common song birds have. Perhaps the worst sinner of the bunch is the little red squirrel, that by good rights ought to be shot on sight.

A lady reader, writing to a leading western agricultural paper, tells of having some 200 little chickens killed by crows during one season, they having had a nesting place in a nearby grove and she not realizing the source of the depredations until most of her chicks were done for. This and other evidence of the destructiveness of the crow to eggs and young chickens would seem to show that as an enemy of the poultry raiser the crow has the hawk, mink and skunk tribes beaten all to pieces.

There are certain sections in the north central states where tests with alfalfa have proved conclusively that it is futile to try to raise it unless chickens have the run of the field devoted to its growth and are able to keep the grasshopper pest in check. Where poultry is not about the hoppers pounce on to the young plants when they are in the second or third leaf and annihilate them, in which performance they show good insect judgment, for it is quite likely the most succulent and nutritious herbage to be found at that season of the year.

A flock of sheep of proper size is entitled to a place on every farm which is adapted to raising them at all, simply from the standpoint of their utility as weed scavengers. The time is not far away when there will be more fully realized the loss which the average farm suffers from the growth of myriads of weeds, which draw nourishment from the soil just as much as, in some cases more than, regular planted crops. When this time comes no great amount of urging will be required to persuade the farmer that he ought to keep a flock of these useful animals.

Not the least of the influences which are tending to boost the already unprecedentedly high price of corn to a still higher level is the unusually wet condition of the soil to be found in many sections of Illinois, one of the banner corn states of the Union, which has rendered impossible in many cases the plowing of last year's fields. Many of them lie untouched, with the old stalks still standing gaunt and bare. So heavy has been the rainfall that it has been next to impossible to get on to the ground with a team, let alone working the soil with any satisfactory results. The above conditions, perhaps aggravated in portions of Illinois, exist in greater or less extent through considerable portions of the entire corn belt. One of the discouraging features about the situation is the fact that there is hardly any other crop that can be grown in the short portion of the season remaining. The situation described insures hard times locally, at least, of a very depressing character.

It seems fair to assume that the reason why more localities do not improve their highways with the occasional use of the King road drag or an implement built on a similar principle is that the claims made for the system of road improvement seem to be so extravagant as to be outside the range of possibility, and yet there is no use denying the claims which have been so often made and just as often demonstrated and proved. There are three things at least which the use of a King road drag does for a road, tending to make it a firm and solid thoroughfare. First, it gives the road a convex instead of a flat or concave surface, which causes rain which falls on the road to flow rapidly to the ditches and gutters at the side. Again, it scrapes off and pulverizes the lumps and at the same time fills up the wagon ruts and chuck holes. One treatment does not do all of the good work, but does put the road in shape so that subsequent traffic and draggings will give it a hard and smooth surface from which the water runs readily, enabling it to dry quickly before there is time for it to be cut up by traffic. The better the condition of the road becomes the less is it subject to the influences which cut up and mar the average flat road, and this is one of the rewards that comes from the care which is given the road in the early stages. We have seen roads treated with the King drag in a wet spell of weather which were almost as smooth and firm as a pavement, while stretches of road at either end of the treated section were unspeakably rough and muddy, the only thing to account for the difference in condition of the two roads being the occasional treatment of the one with the road drag. In view of the enormous sums of money that are paid out annually by raisers of different kinds of farm produce for the hauling of their stuff to market over bad roads the improvement of the highway with the King road drag it entitled to more consideration than it is receiving in most sections of the country.

TREATMENT FOR HOG CHOLERA.

A conference that bids fair to be of more than ordinary value to the hog raisers of the country was held at the Iowa Agricultural college the latter part of May. The department at Washington was represented by Secretary James Wilson and two eminent animal disease specialists from the animal husbandry department. The conference took place on a farm which has been used as a hog cholera experiment station for several years. As the result of years of experimental work the department has developed a method of treating hog cholera which is effective in saving a large per cent of hogs in affected herds. The method of treatment consists in inoculating hogs with a serum taken from animals which have died from the disease, much in the same way that human beings are rendered immune to smallpox by vaccination. The work of the federal department has been confirmed in experiments conducted by the Minnesota and Missouri stations. As instances of the effectiveness of this serum treatment it is stated that in a number of herds which were treated and afterward exposed to cholera contagion only 7 per cent of the treated animals died, while the loss among the untreated herds was 64 per cent. In herds which had been exposed to the disease, but were not sick at the time of treatment, 4½ per cent of the treated and 89 per cent of the untreated animals died. In other herds in which the disease had already broken out before treatment began the loss among treated hogs was 13½ per cent and among untreated hogs 74 per cent. The chief point which was considered by this conference on hog cholera was the most feasible plan for supplying the serum used in the treatment to the hog raisers of the country, Secretary Wilson's idea being that this can be most effectively done by the several state experiment stations. Representatives from different states were present at the conference and were given opportunity to witness in actual operation the method of producing the serum and applying the treatment. If the conference shall be as productive of results as is hoped a long step will have been taken toward relieving the farmers from a source of loss that at times has been enormous.

TUBERCULOSIS BACILLI.

Circular No. 127, issued by the department of animal husbandry at Washington, contains an interesting summary of a series of experiments which have been carried on with a view to ascertaining how long tuberculosis germs will keep their vitality in dairy butter made and kept under average conditions. The butter used in the test was made from the milk of a tuberculosis infected animal, different portions of the product being kept for different lengths of time and then used as a means for inoculating fifty guinea pigs. All of these died within a given period of time, the test showing that some of the animals died from inoculation with butter that had been kept under ordinary conditions four and a half months, which proved conclusively that the tuberculosis bacilli kept their vitality during that length of time. This experiment as it becomes known will simply add to the diligence which city boards of health are already exercising in the matter of examining carefully into the sources of supply of milk, cream and butter furnished their constituents.

INOCULATING FOR ALFALFA.

Those in the alfalfa sections of the country have found by experiment with both methods that better results are obtained in getting a start with alfalfa by inoculating the field to be sown with soil from an old and well established field than by the use of the widely advertised and not always reliable nitro-cultures. Since the land for alfalfa should be well enriched with manure before sowing the seed the best plan for inoculating the land seems to be to scatter several shovelfuls of the inoculated soil through the manure as it is put on the spreader, whence it is thoroughly scattered over the ground as the manure is spread. The field should be thoroughly disked and harrowed and put in the best of tilth after the fertilizer and inoculated soil is applied. Where there is not an established field of alfalfa in the neighborhood from which the soil referred to can be secured that taken from spots where the wild sweet clover grows will answer the same purpose, as the same type of bacteria work in the root systems of each plant.

HOGS AND TUBERCULOSIS.

The likelihood of infection with tuberculosis in the case of hogs following cattle known to be infected with the disease has been very effectively demonstrated in recent experiments which have been conducted at the Iowa experiment station. A bunch of twenty-six hogs were placed in a feed lot to follow cattle which were known to be infected with tuberculosis and a like number put after cattle which were not affected with the disease. At the close of a given period all the hogs in both lots were killed. In the first bunch twenty-one were found badly infected with tuberculosis, while in the second case, where they followed healthy cattle, not one showed any signs of the disease. With from 20 to 50 per cent of the dairy cows of the country having tuberculosis and with hogs following the great majority of these diseased animals, the alarming spread of tuberculosis among the swine of the country is not difficult to trace.

WE never miss the breezes until the sun boils us down.

IT is not always the price of a porterhouse steak that bothers us so much as the lack of it.

THIRTY thousand more freight cars set in motion is an assurance of the actual revival of business that cannot be contradicted.

STEELTON has a man whose heart is on the right side, and yet that organ is on the wrong side. This seems paradoxical and yet it is true.

THAT Iowa farmer who made a million raising pigs is in a position to controvert Henry James' statement that it's hard to get rich by one's pen.

THE country will not care how many times Mr. Thaw changes his headquarters so long as he is kept where they have bars at the windows and guards at the door.

ABOUT the best news we have known in many a day is the order for the Pennsylvania railroad shopmen to get busy and repair all the cars which have been stored.

IT is claimed that the tarantula produces sensations that closely resembles those of intoxication. And now somebody is likely to start tarantula farms is the prohibition states.

IT is the general impression of millions of Americans that William Jennings Bryan would make an impossible president. He is an honest man but his head is ever among the clouds. And he is in very bad company.

A MAN named Watson is in jail in Pittsburg for nonsupport of four wives, according to a news item. Serves him right. Had he managed things properly the four wives would be supporting one husband.

AN exchange says "the Democrats should watch the mistakes made by the Chicago convention and see that the same mistakes are not made by the Democrats." Quite right. The Democrats should be original in their mistakes if in nothing

IF ever there was a candidate for the office of president whose career as a public servant better fitted him for the position than Mr. Taft's official career has fitted that gentleman, we are unable to recall his name just now.

WE suppose the statute books of the modern city would not be considered complete if not adorned with a curfew and an anti-spitting ordinance; nevertheless, nobody ever heard of either being anything but a dead letter.

As the result of the conviction of a young man in the Allegheny county courts the other day, the mother is in a serious condition. It is a sad story, and it is an indication of how crime blasts the lives of others than the criminal.

RECENT events have demonstrated that playing at war is a dangerous pastime. But all these things are comparative. The war game seems almost as safe as marbles in comparison with the deadly sport of celebrating the Fourth of July.

THE monitor Florida, which has been serving as a target for big guns and torpedoes, is to be renamed in order to set her present name free for bestowal upon a battleship. If the English style of nomenclature were employed she might be called the Impregnable.

THE czar doesn't believe in the higher education of women because it has a tendency to make them lose faith in the beneficence of an autocratic government. But as the education of men seems to have substantially the same effect the logical thing for him to do is to abolish all institutions of learning.

BRYAN is grieved down to the bottom of his heart because the Republican national platform doesn't contain a lot of his policies. But he need not hopelessly despair. He can put whatever he wants to in the Denver platform if there is room; if not, he can pass the overflow on to the Hearst party, which holds a convention a few weeks later.

THE scenes of bloodshed reported from the Persian capital are not unnatural sequence to the contest already reported in its priminary stages between the new Shah and his people. The Persian government has for ages been known as the typical Oriental despotism in which the ruler holds the lives and welfare of his subjects at his will.

MR. CLEVELAND'S DEATH.

The death of Grover Cleveland, twice president of the United States removes one of the most striking figures of the political history of this country. He was the only one of the long line of illustrious men chosen to the presidency who was called to the office a second time after spending a period in retirement. When Cleveland first became a national figure it was the habit to refer to him as a political accident. Like many other eminent Americans he came up from an obscure origin. The circumstances which first brought him into prominence were, perhaps, fortunate, but his countrymen, without regard to party affiliations, have long since conceded that he had within him many of the qualities of the truly great man, without which he never would have attained the high honors which were twice bestowed upon him by the country.

The deminant note of his character was, his complete independence of thought and action. He may often have thought mistakenly, but he always thought for himself. No one did his thinking for him. This independence alienated from him during his second administration a large element of his party, but it will give him a place in history in the front rank of American statesmen.

The Exodus.

America is having a new sensation in the two and quarter centuries since William Penn sailed up the Delaware the tide of immigration had been toward America and not away from it until 1908. This year a great many more European natives are leaving the United States than are coming here

It is a remarkable exodus. If it were to continue long it would produce a very decided change in the labor situation in this country. The United States is still largely an undeveloped land. We need all the labor we can get to make productive the vast resources which are yet scarcely touched. Hence the draining away of this very essential element to our country's welfare might cause the most profound apprehension, except that nobody believes it can continue.

Labor is exactly like capital. It goes where it fares the best. In the past labor came here and became enriched at a more rapid rate than anywhere else on the globe. Foreign workmen coming to the United States were unable in a few years to accumulate what in their old homes meant an independent livelihood.

The financial stress last Autmn and the business depression this year have evidently induced many of these thrifty sons and daughters of the Old World to pack up their stores and go back with their savings to the lands where it will go farther than in America.

But this fight eastward wont' last long, because in a short time labor will discover, as capital is all the time finding out, that there is no other places where it can earn so much as right here. Then the great tide of immigration will again set in toward our shores as strong as ever.

Y. M. C. A Vacation Scheme.

The Young Men's Christian Associations of Pennsylvania have a vacation plan which has attracted the interest of many people thoughout the state.

The sessions of the Pennsylvania Association Bible Conference will be held July 2-11 at Eagles Mere. All the afternoons will be reserved for bathing, boating, atheletic games and other recreative past-time. The greatly reduced rates at the splendid Eagles Mere hotels make the occasion appeal to many as an economical outing, as well as an inspiration in Christian work. The hotel rates are $10 and up for the full time and $2 for registration fee. Association men may bring their wives.

The speakers at the Conference will be, the Rev. James M. Gray D D of Chicago who will teach the Historical Books of the Old Testment; the Rev. Thomas R Thoburn of Erie who will discourse upon such themes as 'The Unfailing Christ," "Sanctification for Service," "The Power that worketh in us" Professor A. T. Clay of the Archeological Department of the University of Pennsylvania, who will deliver several illustrated lectures upon "Recent light from Bible Lands;" The Rev. Charles E. Hurlburt, Director of the Africa Inland Mission, arrived in New York on the Celtic on Friday the 26th. He will preside at the Conference and deliver several addresses; Evangelist Chester Birch will contribute to the program chiefly in music, aiding in the singing and rendering special selections on the cornet, on which instrument he is a famous player.

Centre County Folks Hold Picnic

Through some delay an article sent us relative to the annual picnic of the Centre county people in Philadelphia did not reach us until late. We however give it in brief.

The sons and daughters of Centre county residing in and about Philadelphia held their fifth annual basket picnic at Belmont mansion (Fairmont park) on Saturday, June 20th. Although an extremely warm day over 100 persons were present.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Dr. Roland G. Curtin, president.
Ira D. Garman, vice president.
Dr. John C. C. Beale, secretary.
Dr. S. Gray Mattern, treasurer,

It was decided to hold the annual picnic hereafter on the fourth Saturday of June.

Watch the Milk Bottle.

We are nearing the hot months when the infantile death rate will take its annual abrupt upward turn, and in four or five weeks this mortality will shows itself in its customary shocking totals. Much of it is due to milk, and not necessarily to milk that was impure before delivery. If the parents of the community wish to save the babies, the remedy for the summer ills rests to a large extent with themselves. Watchfulness of the milk bottle from this time on will go a long way in preventing the dreaded diseases which means so much in the country's vita statistics.

Returning to the Farm.

From Monroe county comes the announcement that many young men are returning to the farms. While scarcity of employment in some cities doubtless has had something to do with this movement back to the farm there is undoubtedly a general turn of the tide that for many years has carried from the farm and to the cities the best brain and brawn of the times.

The experience of Monroe county is typical of other rural communities throughout the country, if reports are to be believed. There is a manifest revival of interest in the pursuits of agriculture. "Farmer" is coming to be used less and less as a term of ridicule or reproach. The increased attention being given to agriculture by the departments of State and National governments, and the growth of schools and colleges devoted partly or wholly to education along agricultural lines, are indicative of the changed attitude of the public mind on this important subject.

Extension of trolley lines, good roads, telephones and rural free delivery of mail have reduced materially the disadvantages of country life as compared with that of the city.

Farming is a dignified, independent, and, all things considered, fairly remunerative occupation. It ought to be relatively as attractive to the people of the United States as to those of older nations, and it is rapidly coming to be so

The Champion Trout

Postmaster Harter accomplished a feat in the angling line on Saturday night of which any sportsman might well be proud.

While fishing in the still water below Bellefonte's big spring, about 9 o'clock, something struck his fly that felt like a railroad tie, and being supplied with only a four-ounce rod, a common trout leader and a fly with a No. 14 hook, he began to exercise his skill at landing the catch, in which he succeeded after a fifteen minutes' struggle, and which proved to be a California Rainbow trout, measuring 22½ inches in length and weighing 4½ pounds. Though larger trout, of the Brown or German species have been taken, this is the largest Rainbow ever caught in these waters on the fly, and possibly in this or any other state on a hook of that size, hence Bellefonte is entitled to the State Championship for skillful angling—at least until some one goes us one better.

Mr. Harter on Sunday morning presented the trout to the Bellefonte Hospital, all but the tail, which has a spread of five inches and which he holds as a souvenir.

Inexperience Cause for Accidents.

Forest and Streams Publishes the following in a recent issue

It is often asserted that the more one handles firearms, the greater his respect for them. Proof of this is found in the great scarcity of accidents on well regulated rifle ranges and trap-shooting grounds. Millions of shots are fired annually in competitions at flying target, without accidents of a serious nature, and on the rifle ranges where group and individual shooting is carried on at the same time, enough lead is sent in to the backstops to annihilate an army. In the majority of all the cases that have come within notice during the past quarter of a century—and they have been remarkably few in number—those who have been injured violated all the rules of safety and were themselves to blame. If equal care were exercised in the hunting fields the number of casualties would dwindle.

Death at Beech Creek.

Daniel Paul died Saturday night at 10 o'clock at the home of his son A. Lincoln Paul near Beech Creek, of cancer of the stomach, aged about 75 years. Mr. Paul had followed farming in Lamar township, Clinton county nearly all his life. A few years ago he purchased a home in East Salona where he and his wife lived in retirement until her death a few months ago. Being in poor health he went to make his home with his son. Surviving him are three sons, A. L., Robert, James and two daughter, Mrs. Brady Sweely of Avis, and Emma in New York state.

The remains were taken to Salona today and funeral services were held in the Methodist church at 2 30 o'clock by Rev. M. B Babb. Interment was made in cemetery at Cedar Hill.

Freight Shipment Rule

In view of the large annual loss to the railroad companies by the improper marking of freight shipments the following rule adopted by the 416 railroads in the "Official Classification" territory—East of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio rivers—will be effective July 1st.

"Rule 3.—Each package, bundle or piece of less than carload freight must be plainly marked by brush, stencil pasted, labeled or securely fastened tag showing the name of consignee, and the name of the station, town or city, and the state to which destined (See Note).

The marks on packages, bundles or pieces must be compared with the shipping order and bill of lading and corrections, if necessary, made by the consignor or his representative before receipt is signed; old marks must be removed or effaced before packages or pieces will be accepted for transportation.

Freight consigned to a place of which there are two or more of the same name in the same State must have the name of the County marked on each package bundle or piece, and also shown on the shipping receipt.

When freight is consigned to a place not located on the line of a railroad, each package, bundle or piece must be marked with the name of the station at which the consignee will accept delivery, or if destined to a place reached by a water-line, the name of the railroad station at which delivery is to be made to such water-line must be marked on each package, bundle or piece.

Freight not marked in accordance with the foregoing rules will not be accepted for transportation.

Note.—Pasted labels or securley fastened tags should be used only when the character of the freight prevents marking by brush or stencil."

From the State College Times.

John Whitmer, of Pine Hall, was seriously injured during Wednesday's storm. He was struck by a barn door and thrown with considerable force over 20 feet.

C. M. Moody, assisted by L. A. Kolbe, has been assigned by the U. S. bureau of soils to complete the survey of the county and will take up the work begun by Prof. Shaw last summer. They have about 800 miles to survey and map.

Prof. Charles F. Shaw, of the United States bureau of soils, and who has been connected with the Pennsylvania State college for the past year, has been assigned to the Lake Erie district for the summer. Prof. Shaw left for his new field Friday.

During the thunder storm on Wednesday afternoon a fine maple tree on the front campus of the college was struck by lightning. The falling limbs came in contact with the electric light wires and tore them from their supports. There was considerable excitement in that neighborhood during the progress of the storm.

Dr. John I. Robison has caught the automobile fever and is now the owner of a Ford runabout. He made his initial trip in the machine, accompanied by his son, Earl, and the editor. The 16 miles were run in less than an hour. The doctor has perfect control of the machine, which was well demonstrated on the trip yesterday, for the roads were in frightful condition.

Railroad Rumors.

Railroad rumors which would effect quite a few towns in this section of the state are again floating around and have he promise of early consummation. One of the alleged plans is that the Pennsylvania Railroad company contemplates running through freights from Altoona to Harrisburg by way of Lock Haven and Sunbury instead of the present route. It is stated in support of this that whereas now three crews are required to make the run from Altoona to Harrisburg it could be made by a single crew over the Williamsport route, which would include the use of the Bald Eagle Valley branch The fact that yard and trackage improvements are being made at Lock Haven also adds credence to the report.

Another decidedly interesting report is that heard concerning the New York Central and the Lake Shore, and the results that will follow the establishment of the connection of the two roads between DuBois and Oil City. That the New York Central will be running fast express trains west before the close of the year is the prediction of railroad men. The proposed western route would be over the Central's Keating to Clearfield division, thence over the B. R. & P. to DuBois and connect with the Lake Shore at Oil City, The Clearfield division of the B. R. & P. has been undergoing extensive repairs. The Central's line from McElhattan to Keating is also included in the proposed plans, which will do away with the necessity of using the Pennsy's tracks between those two points. Whether the reports go through to a successful culmination remains to be seen, but they have aroused a lively interest among railroad men.

What the Fourth Costs.

The fitting celebration of Independence day, writes Isaac L. Rice in the Century is a question on which patriotic Americans are separated in two widely divergent parties, one claming that it ought to be observed as noisily as possible, the other believing that our national holiday is too glorious an occasion to be marred by din and disorder. Of course we know that even among those who favor a boisterous observance there are many who cannot tolerate it themselves and escape to the country in order to escape the tortures of the "awful Fourth"—just as we know that a large proportion of the noisemakers, including the small boy too is heedless, if not ignorant, of all that our holiday stands for, and thinks of it only as a time when clamor may reign unrestrained. The figures which indicate the price that we pay each year for celebration are so appalling that one would suppose a knowledge of them would be the most powerful deterrent to our annual massacre. This unfortunately is not the case. For the past five years the Journal of the American Medical Association has endeavored to collect statistics setting forth what the celebration of the Fourth costs in human life and usefulness; although these are admittedly incomplete—compiled as they are, almost entirely from newspaper reports instead of from records of hospitals, dispensaries and physicians—they form the gravest possible arrangement of the recklessness which is willing to pay such a price for a "jolly day." They show that during the celebration of five national birthdays, from 1903 to 1907 inclusive, 1,153 persons were killed and 22,520 were injured. Of the injured 80 suffered total and 389 partial blindness; 380 persons lost arms, legs or hands, and 1,690 lost one or more fingers. But these figures startling as they are, convey only a faint idea of the suffering both mental and physical, which went to swell the total cost of these five holidays. In this we must also include the weeks and often the months of anguish of the injured, the suspense of entire families while the fate of some loved one hangs in the balance, the horror of a future of sightless years, the pinching poverty now the lot of many because of the death or maiming of the bread winner.

Hit by a Falling Limb

During the storm at Lock Haven Wednesday afternoon, Arthur Long, of Howard, was hit by a falling limb from a tree and was injured. Mr. Long is a former graduate of the Normal and had gone to that place to attend the commencement exercises. When a storm came up in the afternoon he was standing under a tree when the wind broke off a branch which struck him when it fell. We could not learn how seriously he was injured, but it was necessary to take him to the hospital for treatment

The latest reports are that the other injured persons taken to the hospital from here are improving. The doctors have succeeded in keeping all inflammation out of the wound on Chester Daughenbaugh's head and he is recovering slowly. The condition of Sherwood Welsh is gradually improving and his case is more hopeful than at the time of the accident. In the case of Austin Weaver it is difficult to tell much about his injury owing to its serious nature, It is hoped that all may speedily recover.

The borough school directors would do well to have some one keep the grass and weeds mowed during the summer season. At present it looks very much deserted about the building and at a very small expense the grounds could be kept in a very neat condition.

The local base ball fans were very enthusiastic over Saturday's game but had their ardor dampened when the Snow Shoe team scored eight runs in one inning There was noise enough for a Fourth of July celebration and an umpire with a voice like thunder could scarcely have been heard. The team and the fans have not lost confidence and during the week Manager Diehl has made some radical changes. The same bunch that played here Saturday will go to Snow Shoe on the Fourth to again play the Coal Barons padded aggregation. There will be two games and with the hope of winning them both a large number of devotees of the national sport will accompany the boys to the Mountain city.

Sunday afternoon five young men, three of them from Brookville and two from Clearfield, passed through town on a hike from those towns to Eaglesmere where they will attend the Y. M. C. A. Bible conference. They were prepared to camp enroute and were making about 27 miles a day. The distance from Brookville to Eaglesmere is about 220 miles and after spending 10 days at the resort they will return home on the train.

Pastor Preached Striking Sermon.

At the Reformed church Sunday evening the pastor, Rev. A. M. Schmidt, D. D., preached a very striking and forceful sermon and one that might serve as a warning to the many whose actions prompted the minister to speak in such scathing terms. His text was taken from Matthew xiii, 33, and he dwelt particularly upon some of the present day social problems which must be solved in Bellefonte. One phase of the sermon that appealed to all was that concerning the young ladies of the town who make it a business to get acquainted with the traveling men. Nothing has a greater tendency to lower the moral reputation of any town than this common practice. The Reverend stated that a great deal of this was due to the neglect of proper training by the parents and where the parents failed to do their duty it was the duty of the church to look after those who have turned from the path of morality and decency. The pastor's sermon on this occasion cannot help but bear fruit and should arouse the interest of the indifferent parents and their thoughtless daughters.

Worked Installment Plan.

There was once a man who thought himself poor—so poor that he could give but little money for any good work. One day a lady asked him to put his name down on a paper, promising to give eighteen dollars and twenty-five cents during that year to the different causes for which his church was trying to work. He looked at her in amazement.

"Why my dear woman!" said he, "I never had eighteen dollars and twenty-five cents a year to give in my life, and never expect to have. I'm a poor man."

"Well," said she "if you really think you cannot afford that sum, will you promise to give five cents a day for this year?"

"Why, yes," he said, "five cents a day is a little bit, certainly; if that will do you any good, I can manage so much." And he did and enjoyed it.

Just multiply the number of days in a year by the figure five, will you? Well, what is your product? How much money money did the man save by not pledging eighteen dollars and twenty-five cents? This is a true story.

An Inebriate Asylum.

The Pennsylvania State Medical Society has created a committee, known as the "inebriate hospital committee," which is charged with the duty of making an effort to secure an appropriation from the Legislature for the purpose of erecting and maintaining as a state institution, a properly equipped hospital for the treatment of persons addicted to the excessive use of alcohol, morphine, cocaine and other drugs. Under the inebriate act of 1903, alcholic and drug habitus can be committed to a proper hospital or asylum, but none such exists in this state. At the next meeting of the society arguments will be presented setting forth the necessity of such a state institution to make the state inebriate hospital law effective, and as offering the only hope of restoring to health a large number of inebriates.

Contract Awarded

At the meeting of the Centre and Clinton county commissioners held here on Thursday for the awarding of the contract for the construction of the inter-county bridge pier near Beech Creek the contract was awarded to G. W. Rockwell, of Sunbury. Only three bids were received as follows: Robert Myers of Flemington $9 per cubic yard; Rhoads and Knisely of Bellefonte $835, and G. W. Rockwell of Sunbury $473. The engineers estimate that the pier will contain about 90 cubic yards, which would make Rockwell's bid about $5.25 per cubic yard.

The bids for the construction of several portions of state road in Rush township have been opened and in both instances Woolridge & Philips, of Woodland, were the lowest bidders. Their bid for the Tyrone pike section was $12,540.-25. The letting of the contract will not be made until later.

Giant's Remains Dug Up

The municipal authorities of Central City, four miles west of Huntingdon, W. Va. three weeks ago ordered the removal of a prehistoric mound from Thirteenth street. Tuesday at a distance of 12 feet above the base of the mound, a gigantic human skeleton was discovered

The skeleton measured almost seven feet in length and was of massive proportions. It was surrounded by a mass of rude trinkets. Eight copper bracelets were discovered. These when burnished show the purest of beaten copper and a perfect preservation There were also rude stone vessels, hatchets and arrowheads found within the skeleton. A curiously inscribed totem was found at the head of the skeleton. The Smithsonian institution will be notified of the discovery.

The Mountain Home.

Take me back to my mountain home,
Where everything is still,
To sit beneath that mighty oak
That stands on Hawthorne hill.

Take me back to my happy home
Where I can roam at will,
And listen to the bull frogs sing
With Madam Whippoorwill.

Let me sit in my home-made swing,
And watch God's hand unfold
A cord that cuts the night from day,
As bright as purest gold.

Silently the evening shadows fall
On the low, distant plain,
Hiding from view the new mown hay
And fields of yellow grain.

Now let me close my cabin door
And say my evening prayer,
And listen to that still, small voice,
That calls from every care.

President Thrown From Horse.

President Roosevelt had an exceedingly narrow escape from a serious accident while out horseback riding in Rock Creek park, near Washington. Mrs. Roosevelt was with the president.

The president was riding a new horse, a young animal. The party rode down through a cut in a bank, forded a creek, and were ascending the bank on the other side. The president's horse reared, the president leaned forward in the saddle, and threw the reins down in loops, so as to avoid pulling the horse backward. Again, on reaching the top of the bank, the horse reared a second time, and the president leaned forward again, but the animal stood up straight on its hind legs and then went over backward into the creek, with the president. Feeling that he was going backward, the president slipped from the saddle, and, as luck would have it, fell into the creek close beside the horse, which landed on its back. The horse fell on the down stream side of the president, who, realizing that he would be in danger from the animal's feet should the horse turn towards him, got out of the way as rapidly as possible. The horse, however, turned over from the president and got up. He was captured at once, the president remounted, and rode for an hour and a half before returning to the White House. The fall from the horse's back to the stream bed was a distance of more than ten feet. The stream was about two feet deep, with an exceedingly rock bed. Neither the president nor the horse received the slightest injury.

Six Killed On the Tennessee.

A terrible accident took place on the United States cruiser Tennessee while the ship was steaming at nineteen knots on a speed trial off Point Huenene, Cal., when a steam pipe in the starboard engine room burst under 235 pounds pressure, killing four men and injuring ten others, all the men in the compartment at the time.

The explosion, the cause of which is unknown, occurred only a few minutes after Admiral Uriel Sebree, Captain F. B. Howard and Chief Engineer Robertson had left the engine room on a tour of inspection. The dead are: George Wood, Scranton, Pa.; E. C. Boggs, Woodlawn, Ala.; A. Rheinhold, machinist's mate, Germany; George W. Meek, fireman, Skidmore, Kan.; S. S. Stematis, Norfolk, Va., and F. S. Maxfield, Toughkenamon, Chester county, Pa.

There was no wreckage, but the explosion was described by the survivors as frightful. So great was the blast of soot and steam that every man in the room was blackened from head to foot, while those closest to the break were cooked alive. The dead and injured were blackened almost beyond recognition.

Eight Killed In Trolley Crash.

In a head-on collision between two special cars of the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Electric Railroad company, near Annapolis, Md., eight persons were killed outright and a score of others were seriously injured, some of them perhaps fatally. The collision was due to a confusion of orders, as the line has been running several extra cars each way in connection with the commencement festivities at the naval academy.

The dead are: J. W. McDaniel, George White, Richard Norton, A. H. Schultz, all of Baltimore; Police Patrolman Shriber, employed by the railway company at Academy Junction; Mrs. George W. Green, of Washington; Zach O'Neal, of New York, the motorman of one of the wrecked cars; Ruth Slaughter, six years old, daughter of General Traffic Manager William E. Slaughter, of the road.

Girl Attacked By Negro.

Miss Nellie Higginbotham, of North Woodbury, N. J., was attacked and brutally beaten by a negro while returning to her home from Philadelphia. The young woman, who is twenty-four years of age, had alighted from a trolley car, and was walking along Shiver's lane when she was attacked by a negro. Miss Higginbotham screamed, and a tollgate keeper named Valentine came to her rescue. The negro, to stop her cries, beat the young woman over the head with a blackjack, crushing her skull. He fled, and a posse was organized and started in pursuit. The blackjack with which he had beaten Miss Higginbotham was found on the path where the young woman was picked up unconscious. The entire community is aroused by the outrage.

Rabies From Cat Bite.

Mrs. John Knox, of Palmyra, N. J., is under treatment at the Pasteur institute in Chicago, suffering from rabies, caused by the bite of a pet cat. The cat was lying in Mrs. Knox's lap about a week ago, when it suddenly sank its teeth deep into her hand.

A few days later the hand commenced to swell. She left at once for Chicago, taking the cat with her. A telegram announced that an examination of the cat's brain showed a well-developed case of rabies.

The New Jersey board of assessors filed with the state comptroller a preliminary schedule of the taxes levied against corporations organized under the laws of New Jersey. The schedule embraces 6445 companies, who will pay taxes aggregating $2,457,000.

Killed Drunken Husband.

Driven to desperation by the taunts of her drunken husband, Mrs. Emma Sandix, a Slavish woman, of Pringle Hill, near Wilkes-Barre, Pa., fatally shot her husband. The woman is the mother of seven children.

State to Assist Unemployed

Hereafter the State of Pennsylvania will receive applications from the unemployed and endeavor to put them to work. The scheme has been evolved by John L. Rockey, chief of the State Bureau of Industrial Statistics. Pennsylvania has never had a bureau of employment, and although numerous inquiries about obtaining men have been received in recent years had many requests for information which might lead to employment have lately been reaching the bureau it has been unable to care for them through lack of an appropriation.

Chief Rockey has decided after study of the statutes that there is nothing to prevent his bureau from engaging in such work, and has opened communication with organizations of the Young Men's Christian Association and other bodies throughout the State, so that lists of those desiring men or employment may be kept.

"At present there is a demand for men to aid in the harvest," said Chief Rockey. "I know of counties where men can receive good wages and substantial board, and where unless hands are obtained the gathering of the crops will be seriously interferred with."

Good News at Altoona.

Shopmen in Altoona rejoiced on Friday when an order was issued that some of the Altoona shops would operate on full time. This morning the freight car shops and Goodman's repair tracks started in on ten hours a day, except Saturday when they will work till noon. All freight cars in need of repairs will be run into the shops and all necessary repairs will be made to them. This will furnish work for other departments of the shops, as many new parts will have to be made in order to complete the repairs.

An order was also issued for the building of new engines at the Juniata shops and it is also quite probable that the Altoona machine shops will go on full time in a short time. The men are hopeful that the shops will soon be running on the conditions that prevailed before the business depression began.

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heartburn," belching of gas, acid risings in throat after eating, stomach gnaw or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, torpid liver with indigestion, or dyspepsia. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowel regulator and nerve strengthener.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, a full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A glance at its formula will show that it contains no alcohol, or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is a fluid extract made with pure, triple-refined glycerine, of proper strength, from the roots of the following native American forest plants, viz., Golden Seal root, Stone root, Black Cherry bark, Queen's root, Bloodroot, and Mandrake root.

The following leading medical authorities, among a host of others, extol the foregoing roots for the cure of just such ailments as the above symptoms indicate: Prof. R. Bartholow, M. A TALE OF THE SEA.

The Upside Down Cruise of the Captain of the Erndte.

An almost incredible instance of the perils attending those who go to sea was the basis of a story told in a maritime court of Dantzic some years ago by the captain of the sailing ship Erndte. Nothing that Jules Verne, Clark Russell and H. G. Wells ever fancied in their wonderful tales surpassed the story told by Captain Engellandt.

He had sailed from Memel with a cargo of planks for Oldenburg. The captain remained at the wheel during a gale which overtook the vessel next night and at 4 in the morning went to his cabin to change his wet clothes.

He had just got into dry underclothing when his vessel capsized, and he found himself standing on the roof of the cabin, the door of which the sea had hermetically closed.

By loosening the boards of what was now the roof he got into the hold, which contained only loose sails. Fortunately some shelves of a high cupboard remained intact, and from them he collected some cans of condensed milk, some prunes, rice, sugar and sausage. He also found a hammer.

For twelve days the master of the ship lived in his prison, eating as sparingly as possible and drinking sea water, which appeared to have no ill effect on him. He employed his free time in hammering on the steel bottom of the ship to attract the attention of passing vessels. He knew when it was day, for a dim light penetrated the water.

On the twelfth day the Norwegian steamer Aurora sighted the wreck and sent a boat to take it in tow. Engellandt had fallen asleep; but, hearing footsteps over his head, he began knocking with his hammer and shouting for help. The Aurora's men returned to their ship for tools, with which they bored a hole through the bottom of the Erndte where they had heard the shouting. When they drew out their drill, a man's finger followed, and they soon learned that Engellandt had food for four days more and wished to be towed to land, for it was impossible to release him in the open sea.

The Aurora towed the wreck safely to Neufahrwasser, where with considerable difficulty it was attached to a huge crane, a plate was unloosened, and the imprisoned master was freed. He was perfectly conscious and even able to walk alone. The three men who had constituted his crew were of course drowned when the vessel capsized.—New York Tribune.

A PARIS CAFE.

The Winning Ways of a Smooth and Wily Extortionist.

At Paillard's and the Cafe de la Paix, which latter is now owned by Ledoyer, who began life as a bottle washer and is today worth 2,000,000 francs, you will be fairly certain of a carte with the prices affixed, but at the Cafe de Paris, unless you are known, you will meet the carte with no price stated, which means that you will be charged whatever the maitre d'hotel thinks you are able or willing to pay. It may be that you will suggest that the usual carte would be a greater compliment to your common sense, but if you do that you are a brave man. The cowards may console themselves with the reflection that in the eyes of the management they are either princes, rich Americans or fools. I have seen half a hundred princes, a few rich Americans and a great many fools, for unless one is born to the purple the maitre d'hotel of such a place as the Cafe de Paris is apt to tower above one, a greater man than Saul of Tarsus. I recall the incident of an American who did object, not to the carte, but to the bill as rendered, and what do you think happened to him?

"If monsieur pleases," suavely said the maitre d'hotel, "it will afford us the greatest pleasure to extend to monsieur the hospitality of the house, in which case monsieur will of course pay nothing, but unless monsieur wishes to accept we must ask him to pay the full amount of the bill as rendered. We cannot permit that our tariff should be questioned."

Shrewd Advice.

The virtues of a keen business man are often negative rather than positive. It is said that a great broker once told his son that only two things were necessary to make a great financier.

"And what are those, papa?" the son asked.

"Honesty and sagacity."

"But what do you consider the mark of honesty to be?"

"Always to keep your word."

"And the mark of sagacity?"

"Never to give your word."

She Lost Her Shoe.

While in Samoa Robert Louis Stevenson and his wife in a great measure did as the Romans did—that is to say, as the Samoans did. It was Louis' custom to lie abed late of a morning and spend the remainder of the time under a tree on the hill clad in light pajamas, the dress of the native Kanaka. With his wife it was the same. Stays were unknown to her and a curling iron a dim recollection of a shady past. It was while Stevenson and his wife were living at Apia, in Samoa, that Mr. Heywood was appointed consul there for this country. Shortly after his arrival in the country he arranged for a reception to the English, German and American residents of the country that they might meet him in his official capacity and he them as "citizens of Samoa." Of course an invitation was sent Robert Louis Stevenson and his wife. Two days before the date of the function Mr. Heywood was surprised to receive a note from Mr. Stevenson sent by courier. The note read as follows:

Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson and Robert Louis Stevenson accept Consul Heywood's invitation with pleasure and assure him that they will be present on the evening of the 23d if by that time Mrs. Stevenson finds her other shoe. Ever thine, ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

Ancient Fashion Jargon.

The language of the fashion plate and the woman's paper is sufficiently appalling to the mere man even in these days of emancipated and, we may presume, more grammatical womanhood; but, according to an extract from a fashion journal of 1787, the jargon of those days was even more astounding. This is how the paper described the dress of a certain Mlle. D at the opera:

"She appeared in a dress of 'stifled sighs,' ... with ... 'regrets,' the bodice cut in a 'perfect candor' point and trimmed with 'indiscreet complaints.' Her hair was dressed in 'sustained sentiments,' with a headdress of 'sustained conquest,' ornamented with several 'flyaways' and 'downcast eye' ribbons, and her collar was 'beggar on horseback' color.'

No doubt all these marvelous terms conveyed some meaning to the fashionable woman of the days when French society danced on the edge of the volcano of 1789, but to their descendants of today they have absolutely no meaning.

The First Hello Girl.

They were seated around a table in a well known cafe, and the conversation had turned upon the development of the flying machine and other fruits of the inventive genius of the day.

"Tut, tut!" exclaimed a solemn faced, lantern jawed member of the party. "What of it? The old folks were not so slow. Look at the telephone, claimed as a modern invention. Why, say, it's the oldest on record."

"You better see your doctor. What's the matter with you?" asked another.

"Oh, I mean it," said the solemn faced man. "Telephone service dates back to the garden of Eden—that's where it originated. The garden's call was 2-8-1 Apple."

Then he dodged the remnant of a sandwich, reached for his hat and was gone.—New York Globe.

Why, Indeed?

Robert Lowe once watched a deaf friend listening to a most tremendous bore with his ear trumpet. "Why," Lowe wondered aloud—"why contend against natural advantages?"

Silver is of less value than gold, gold than virtue.—Horace.

OPEN SECRETS.

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so published broadcast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines. Thus he has taken the many users of his medicines into his full confidence. Thus too he has absolutely and completely removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merits, and made them REMEDIES OF KNOWN COMPOSITION.

Dr Pierce's medicines are now in a class all by themselves—being absolutely and in every sense Non-secret.

By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his formulas are of such excellence that he is not afraid to subject them to the fullest scrutiny.

Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver or biliousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed upon it, in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R.V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same. From this booklet it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral agents or other poisonous or injurious agents and that they are made from native, medicinal roots of great value; also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, nervous, over-worked, "run-down," nervous and debilitated women, were employed, long years ago by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their squaws. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Squaw-Weed." Our knowledge of the uses of not a few of our most valuable native, medicinal plants was gained from the Indians.

As made up by improved and exact processes, and with the use of specially designed chemical apparatus, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health.

The exact proportion of the several ingredients used in these medicines, as well as the working formula and peculiar processes, apparatus and appliances employed in their manufacture, are withheld from publicity that Dr. Pierce's proprietary rights may not be infringed and trespassed upon by unprincipled imitators and those who may be piratically inclined.

Dr. John Fyfe, of Saugatuck, Conn., Editor of the Department of Therapeutics in THE ECLECTIC REVIEW says of Unicorn root (Helonias Dioica) one of the chief ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription: "A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine invigorator and always favors a condition which makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system, cannot fail to be of great usefulness and of the utmost importance to the general practitioner of medicine."

"Helonias more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent."

"The following are among the leading indications for Helonias: Pain or aching in the back, with leucorrhea; atonic (weak) conditions of the reproductive organs of women, mental depression and irritability, associated with chronic diseases of the reproductive organs of women, constant sensation of heat in the region of the kidneys: menorrhagia, ("flooding") due to a weakened condition of the reproductive system; amenorrhea, arising from or accompanying an abnormal condition of the digestive organs and an anemic (thin blood) habit; dragging sensation in the extreme lower part of the abdomen."

If more or less of the above symptoms are present, no invalid woman can do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which is rich in all the medical properties of Unicorn root, or Helonias.

Life.

The poets' exclamation: "O Life I feel thee bounding in my veins," is a joyous one. Persons that can rarely or never make it, in honesty to themselves are among the most unfortunate. They do not live but exist, for to live implies more than to be. To live is to be well and strong—to arise feeling equal to the ordinary duties of the day, and to retire not overcome by them—to feel life bounding in the veins. A medicine that has made thousands of people, men and women, well and strong, has accomplished a great work, bestowing the richest blessings, and that medicine is Hood's Sarsaparilla. The weak, rundown, or debilitated from any cause, should not fail to take it. It builds up the whole system, changes existence into life, and makes life more abounding. We are glad to say these words in its favor to the readers of our columns.

REMAINS WERE LAID TO REST

Funeral of Former President Cleveland at Princeton was Private

RITES WERE SIMPLE.

All That was Mortal of Great Statesman was Laid to Rest at Six O'clock Friday Evening.

WAS BURIED AS PRIVATE CITIZEN.

Princeton, N. J., June 26th—Grover Cleveland's body lies buried tonight in the Cleveland plot in Princeton cemetery.

At 6 o'clock, just as the sun was sinking in the west, a distinguished company silently watched as the body was lowered into the grave. Then the simple burial service of the Presbyterian church was read and before the last of the carriages in the cortege had driven up to the path leading to the burial place, the benediction had been pronounced and the members of the family President Roosevelt and others, who had gathered about the grave, were leaving the cemetery. Many of the personal friends of the dead statesman lingered about the spot which was to mark his last resting place and each in turn was permitted to cast a shovelful of earth into the grave.

Agreeable to the wishes of Mrs. Cleveland the services both at the house and at the cemetery were of the simplest character. An invocation, Scripture reading, a brief prayer and the reading of William Wordsworth's poem, "Character of the Happy Warrior," constituted the services at the house, while the reading of the burial service at the grave was brief and impresive.

Although the funeral was of a strictly private nature, those in attendance numbered many distinguished citizens, including President Roosevelt, Governor Fort, of New Jersey; Governor Hughes, of New York; Governor Hoke Smith, of Georgia; former members of President Cleveland's cabinet, officials of the Equitable Life Assurance society members of the Princeton university faculty and friends and neighbors.

Mr. Cleveland was buried with all the simplicity and privacy that he himself might have wished as a private citizen rather than as the former chief executive of the nation. There was nothing that savored of the official and the military element was injected solely as a measure of precaution in protecting President Roosevelt.

Weak women should try Dr. Shoop's Night Cure. These soothing, healing, antiseptic suppositories go direct to the seat of these weaknesses. My "Book No. 4 For Women" contains many valuable hints to women, and it is free. Ask the Doctor Shoop, Racine, Wis. to mail it. Ask the Doctor in strictest confidence any questions you wish answered. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is sold by Green's Pharmacy.

A Pension Muddle.

Serious difficulty is confronting the notaries, justices and pensioners in a number of the country towns and all because the governments recently increased the rate of widows' pensions.

Under the law it is necessary for a pensioner to present the original certificate to the officer executing a voucher each quarter. In the smaller towns where all the pensioners are known, the formality has been ignored. But last month when the new law went into effect the department called in all original pension certificates and now find that in a score of instances the certificates have been lost, in some cases for many years. Several justices are confronted with the facts that their clients heve not seen the certificates since they were issued by the government.

All concerned—witnesses, pensioners, and officers are placed in an ugly light for each has put himself on record as having seen the certificates every time the vouchers were made out. The commissioner of pensions will probably make an investigation.

One of Hook's Practical Jokes.

Theodore Hook forged 4,000 letters to 4,000 tradesmen and others requesting them to call on a certain day and hour at the house of a wealthy widow, Mrs. Tottenham, in Berners street, London, against whom he had conceived a grudge.

These people began to arrive soon after daybreak. The rush continued until nearly midnight. They came by fifties and hundreds.

There were 100 chimney sweeps, 100 bakers, fifty doctors, fifty dentists, fifty accouchers. There were priests to administer extreme unction and Methodist ministers to offer last prayers. There were fifty confectioners with wedding cakes, fifty undertakers with coffins, fifty fishmongers with baskets of cod and lobsters. They pushed, quarreled and fought, and the police were called out to prevent a riot. Finally among the hoaxed ones came the governor of the Bank of England, the royal Duke of Gloucester and the lord mayor of London, each lured thither by some cunning pretext. A police investigation followed, but the perpetrator was not detected.

A Wonderful Bowman.

The Romans were very skillful bowmen, although they discarded the weapon in warfare, trusting to the charge and to hand to hand fighting. Many of the Roman emperors were famous archers. It is said that Domitian would place boys in the circus at a considerable distance from him and as they held up their hands with the fingers outstretched he would send the arrows between them with such nicety and accuracy of aim that he never inflicted a wound.

The wicked emperor Commodus boasted that he never missed his aim or failed to kill the wild beast that he shot with a single arrow. He would set a shaft in his bow as some wild beast was set free in the circus to devour a living criminal condemned to die. Just when the furious animal was springing on his prey the emperor would strike it dead at the man's feet. Sometimes 100 lions were let loose at once in order that he, with 100 arrows, might kill them. With arrows the heads of which were semicircular he would sever the necks of ostriches in full flight.

A Talent For Balancing.

The pleasant coffee room of the old Star and Garter at Richmond, which was burned down in 1869, was patronized by England's statesmen, politicians and writers. On Saturday evenings it was regularly visited by a middle aged gentleman of rather broad stature, with gray hair and a large shirt collar which formed a conspicuous feature in his attire. He would dine always alone at a particular corner table, and after dinner it was his humor to build up before him a pyramid of tumblers and wineglasses, which he topped with a decanter. Occasionally the whole structure would topple over and litter the table with its ruins. Then the middle aged gentleman would rise, pay his bill, including the charge for broken glass, and depart. The waiters knew him well. He was Thomas Babington, Lord Macaulay.

Curious Greetings.

A French journal has been looking into the question of how different races express the colloquialism "How do you do?" and presents some curious examples. The Koreans, for instance, do not give or imply any offense when they greet each other with the remark, "You do look old." Persians say, "May Allah preserve your beard and cover it with benedictions." Among a tribe of Fiji islanders the correct form of salutation is to pull one's ear. A Caroline Islander kneels before his friend, whose foot he grasps and slaps himself vigorously in the face with it. In the Sudan a traveler was addressed by a native chief as "Mighty sun," the said chief finishing up with "Glory to thee, O splendid moon," the remark being accentuated by expectorating in the traveler's right hand.

Greatness.

There is a kind of elevation which does not depend on fortune. It is a certain air which distinguishes us and seems to destine us for great things. It is a price which we imperceptibly set on ourselves. By this quality we usurp the deference of other men, and it puts us, in general, more above them than birth, dignity or even merit itself. —La Rochefoucauld.

A Coincidence.

"I'm afraid, George," said his fiancee, "that you are going from bad to worse."

"Quite a coincidence," muttered George. "That's what Clara said when I threw her over for you."

Spurgeon's Complaint.

Mr. Spurgeon once complained that his deacons were worse than the devil.

"Resist the devil," said he, "and he will fly from you, but resist a deacon and he will fly at you."

Hope.

"There is no sweeter suffering than hope." So runs an old German proverb, melancholy text for hearts that bitter disappointment has cured and to whom all hope is but memory.

Not Entirely.

Moe Rose—Do you think the automobile is replacing the horse? Joe Cose—Well, not entirely, anyway. I haven't found automobile in my bologna as yet.—Browning's Magazine.

Of a Modern Genius.

"Going to compile his life and letters?"

"There were no letters. I'm going to compile his fo and post cards."—Washington raid.

An Unsought Pardon.

Among the stories of that former governor of Texas familiarly known as Sam Houston is more than one amusing tale.

There was a fluent tal agent of the penitentiary who had warmly opposed the election of Governor Houston, but was particularly anxious to retain his own pecuniarily lucrative position. Consequently the new governor was soon in receipt of a petition in which the man's years of faithful service and special qualifications for the place were set forth in glowing terms by himself.

The governor sent for him and said gravely, "It appears from this petition that you have been in the penitentiary eight years."

"I have," was the reply.

"And during that time you have performed faithfully every duty that has come in your way to the best of your ability?"

"I have," answered the agent, his courage swiftly rising.

"Then, sir," said the governor, with the air of one conferring a priceless favor, "I pardon you out."

Put Out of Commission.

Abernethy was supposed to influence people by a brusqueness amounting to absolute rudeness. It is related that one day a very voluble lady took her daughter, who was ill, to see him.

"Which of you two wants to consult me?" said Abernethy.

"My daughter," replied the elder woman.

Abernethy then put a question to the girl. Before she had a chance to reply her mother began a long story. Abernethy told her to be quiet and repeated his question to the girl. A second time the woman began a story, and a second time he told her to be quiet. Then she interrupted him a third time.

"Put your tongue out," he said to the mother.

"But there's nothing the matter with me," she exclaimed.

"Never mind, put your tongue out," he commanded.

Thoroughly overawed, the woman obeyed.

"Now, keep it out," said Abernethy, and he proceeded to examine the girl.—Grand Magazine.

A Queer Complication.

In Sydney, a town of 500,000 inhabitants, one can get nothing to eat on a Sunday. Certain restaurants supply food surreptitiously, but the whole time the guests are in danger of being arrested. Once an Italian was in such a restaurant on Sunday when suddenly the police entered. The Italian was promptly pushed by the proprietor into a room where a waitress happened to be standing in negligee. Even this room the police invaded, but the waitress saved the situation by declaring that the young man was her fiance. The young man, by the way, had been married some time. He thought that he had deceived the policeman; but, as a matter of fact, he had got out of the frying pan into the fire. One fine day the waitress called him before the courts and claimed $2,500 for breach of promise. The Italian had to pay. And then came the worst of all. His wife sued for a divorce and shortly after married another man.

Tackle This One.

The following paragraph of a hundred words is an excellent test in pronunciation. Try it first, and then go over it again, every word, in company with a good dictionary:

"Cleopatra, isolated in the oasis, soon became acclimated and had ample leisure to contemplate all the economic details of her inextricable sword. The wound resisted the allopathic misogynist, who gave a courteous diagnosis and humbly craved precedence for a tiny idyl in the form of a vase with an aesthetic acousting apparatus. This told the news like a book, but it might have been a dog living in squalor from the look she launched at him when he wrote down his address. She ate her breakfast and then fraternized with a national expert in appendicitis, who attended the obsequies."

Vanishing France.

Old France is slowly disappearing and its local customs, picturesque costumes and the language peculiar to its ancient provinces will very soon become nothing more than precious souvenirs preserved in faithful memories or related in works of tradition, which will charm our descendants.—Petit Parisien.

A Slight Difference.

What is the difference between a jeweler and a jailer? One sells watches and the other watches cells.

She Was Safe.

Little four-year-old Mabel was running downhill, holding her dress tightly.

"Be careful," called her mother, "or you will fall."

"Oh, no, I won't," replied Mabel. "'cause I'm holding tight to myself."

Not What He Meant.

Forbearance.

Bacon—Did you ever have any desire to go on the stage? Egbert—Oh, yes; only last week I did. Oh, the actor was vile! But I contented myself with shying an egg at him.—Yonkers Statesman.

If one feels dull and spiritless, in the spring or early summer, they call it "Spring Fever". But there is no fever—usually. It is the after effect of our winter habits. The nerves are mostly at fault. Tired, worn-out nerves leave us languid, lifeless, and without spirit or ambition. A few doses of Dr. Shoop's Restorative will absolutely, and quickly change all of these depressing symptoms. The Restorative of course won't bring you back or full health in a day or two, but it will do enough in 48 hours to satisfy you that the remedy is reaching that "tiredspot". Druggists everywhere are advising its use as a splendid and prompt general tonic. It gives more vim and more spirit to the spoonful than any other known nerve or constitutional tonic. It sharpens a failing appetite, aids digestion, frees sluggish livers and kidneys, and brings new life, strength and ambition. Test it a few days and be convinced Sold by Green's Pharmacy

—It is quite frequently the case that farmers and raisers of produce and the like are tempted to ship their own products to the city markets to unknown persons rather than sell them to the local hucksters who have an established trade in the cities. A few cents more has lured many a one to do this and it is quite frequently the case that they receive nothing at all. —Quite a sensation was sprung at Howard on Saturday when Justice Hayes Schenck was asked to issue warrants for the arrest of two persons for hauling calves with the legs tied. Fortunately, however, there is no further fear of the spread of the disease, diphtheria, from which the latter died. There was a great alarm in that quarter of Potter township, but there is no reason now to entertain fears of a further outbreak of the disease named.

—Harvey Stine, who has been engaged in draying in this place for some time, has decided to locate in State College. The other children and the mother were also badly injured

—The Pennsylvania Railroad will run a special train from Howard to Snow Shoe on Saturday July Fourth for the accommodation of the base ball team and those who are going with the team. The special will leave Howard at eight o'clock in the morning and returning will leave Snow Shoe at ten o'clock that evening. —Captain Heather of the Salvation Army has located a poor woman who is very much in need of a carriage for her baby and as many people store them away in their attics he wishes to announce that he will see that it will go to this woman if someone who has a carriage they do not need will donate it to the cause. The carriage can be left at the Army headquarters or notify Captain Heather. This is an opportunity for someone to do an act of charity and the carriage will be quite a convenience to the poor but noble mother.

—There are many persons who think that the more noise one makes the better he is celebrating the Fourth. Such persons are mistaken and while they are subjecting themselves to great injury they also make the day miserable for others and are a menace wherever they go. The use of revolvers and fireworks charged with high explosives should be strictly prohibited and the law rigidly enforced. While the law is very liberal toward the use of certain kinds of fireworks on the Fourth no one has any reason for celebrating in a way that jeopardizes the lives of others. Parents should see to it that their children do not come into into possession of the dangerous fireworks.

Jaw Broken in a Fight.

The vicinity of Romola, in Curtin township has always been the seat of quite a few men who prided in their strength and pugilistic abilities, and quite frequently we hear of the Marsh Creek "bullies" coming to blows. In an encounter near Robb's store last Friday evening Austin Weaver was so badly injured that grave fears are entertained for his recovery. It appears that a brother of the injured man got into an altercation with "Jake" Brickly over a girl and a fierce fight ensued in which Weaver was getting the worst of it and his brother Austin took it up and Brickley succeeded in defending himself against the brothers. In several powerfully delivered blows, which must have been something on the order of a mule kick, Austin Weaver had the one side of his jaw broken and on the other side the bone was smashed to a pulp.

The injured man was taken to the office of Dr. Kurtz at Howard for treatment and from there he was removed to the Lock Haven hospital. From the latest reports very little encouragement could be received from the physicians.

The Fourth at State College

The Alpha Fire company of State College has made preparations for the proper observance of the Fourth. The celebration will begin at nine o'clock with a concert by three bands on the college campus. This will be followed by a baseball game between Scotia and State College. At high noon the national salute of 21 guns will be fired by Capt. Allen.

The program in the afternoon will include a 100 yard dash, fat woman's race, 3 foot races, fat man's race, bicycle race, tug of war, pillow fight and free for all low hurdle, bald headed and auto races. At 3 o'clock State College and Millheim will play ball. At 6 o'clock a fantastic parade and an address by Dr. E. E. Sparks. The celebration will conclude with a festival in the evening. There will be a baloon ascension every hour.

Early Closing Arrangement.

This has been customary heretofore and the customers will soon get in the habit of making their purchases during the day. On account of being closed on Saturday some of the stores will make an exception of the rule on Friday evening and remain open for accomodation.

Will is now employed as agent for the company in Lock Haven and on the evening mentioned went to Flemington to go bathing in the canal near Foresmans & Kelsey's flour mill. He went to the boys' swimming hole which is very deep and waded out to his neck and then swam to shore again. Thinking he could swim alright the boys paid no more attention to him. The second time he went out until the water reached his chin. There was only one other boy in the water at the time and when Mr. Shope attempted to swim ashore he kicked himself into deep water. He struggled to reach the shore but could not and when he tried to call for help he was strangled by the water, seeing that "Billy" was in danger of drowning a young man by the name of Rudy Bridgens went to his rescue and soon helped him to a place of safety.

Many Watch the Eclipse.

A great many persons were out on Sunday with smoked glasses from the time the eclipse was supposed to come on the sun until it finally passed off. Shortly before ten o'clock a dark spot appeared on one side of the sun and this gradually increased in size until after eleven o'clock when about three-fifths of Old Sol was obscured. The eclipse then gradually decreased and about one o'clock it had passed off. The eclipse was not large enough to cause any degree of darkness but gave the atmosphere the usual peculiar hue and the shadows made by the leaves of trees and the like were of a cresent shape. Another way to tell how much of the sun was eclipsed was to enter a darkened room and let the sun shine through a hole in the blind or something fixed for the occasion. When the rays of the sun shone upon the floor it was in the form of a cresent just the same as the visible part of the sun.

Base Ball at Jacksonville

The Bellefonte Giants (colored) went down to Jacksonville on Saturday to play the team at that place and returned to Bellefonte bearing palms of victory. The Jacksonville team was no match at all for the Giants scoring only one run while the ebony boys had 16 runs tallied on their score. The Giants outplayed the farmer boys in every particular and had only two errors to 6 by the home team. The Giants made 27 hits off the J. V's while the latter made only 20 hits off the sons of Africa.

The Jacksonville boys, however were too busy getting ready for the evening when they held a festival which was the attraction for all the young folks in that vicinity. They were more successful in this and cleared a nice sum of money for the team.
